

PARIS

SUMMER COURSES

2011

The International Academy for Arbitration Law/Académie internationale du droit de l'arbitrage was created to address the increasing demand for specialized teaching in international arbitration.

The Academy provides advanced three-week Summer Courses in Paris to students and young practitioners interested in international arbitration. The Curriculum is conceived by international arbitration academics and practitioners to cover all aspects of international arbitration, and the Courses are taught by the most renowned experts in the fields of international commercial arbitration and international investment arbitration.

The Curriculum includes a 15-hour General Course, alternating between international commercial arbitration and international investment arbitration, 5-hour Special Courses on specific topics, as well as Workshops on institutional arbitration offered by different arbitral institutions. The Courses will be preceded by an Inaugural Lecture given by a prominent arbitration figure. The Berthold Goldman Lecture will be an opportunity to revisit historic arbitration stories.

The Academy is an initiative of the Comité français de l'arbitrage (CFA), and is currently chaired by Professor Emmanuel Gaillard.

Students interested in attending the 2011 Courses are invited to submit their application by April 30, 2011.
