

PARIS

SUMMER COURSES

2012

The International Academy for Arbitration Law/Académie internationale du droit de l'arbitrage was created to address the increasing demand for specialized teaching in international arbitration.

The Academy provides advanced Summer Courses in Paris to students, government officials and young practitioners interested in international arbitration. The Curriculum is conceived by academics and practitioners to cover all aspects of international arbitration, and the Courses are taught by the most renowned experts in the fields of international commercial arbitration and international investment arbitration.

The Curriculum includes a 15-hour General Course, alternating every year between international commercial arbitration and international investment arbitration, five 5-hour Special Courses on specific topics, as well as Workshops on institutional arbitration offered by different arbitral institutions. The Courses are preceded by an Inaugural Lecture given by a prominent arbitration figure. Finally, the Berthold Goldman Lecture, also given by a leading figure of arbitration, will be an opportunity to revisit historic arbitration stories.

The Academy is an initiative of the Comité français de l'arbitrage (CFA) and is chaired by Professor Emmanuel Gaillard.

Students interested in attending the 2012 Courses are invited to visit the Arbitration Academy's website at www.arbitrationacademy.org and submit their application by February 15, 2012.
